■■■■■■■■ It's as if, in the eyes of non-Christians, that Christians are based on a standard, an expectation.

I think, this kind of expectation is also very popular amongst Christian circles. And this kind of expectation is also very popular amongst Christian circles.

Because there are people who say, or say, that other people are not bad, they are not like a Christian. For example, many times people come up to me and complain that so-and-so's behavior is not good.

And unlike a Christian. Because they don't live according to the Bible, for example. And obviously, here I receive a lot of complaints about the behavior of young people.

[3:25] These people may also say, I'm not doing my job well. They may think, I'm not doing my job well. But the complaints other people make about you and me, you don't always have to agree with them.

But you have to understand, what is to be a good Christian?
